

WHAT OUR CUSTOMERS ARE SAYING

Robin Leah has done many projects for myself and those I recommend her to. Not only has she done superb work for me, but she has also excelled in those I referred her to. It is nice for friends and associates to thank me for introducing them to the fine work of Robin Leah. Unequivocally I would advocate her services to any wishing web design and content.

CHALLENGES & SOLUTIONS

Giving Hand existed as a website whose purpose was dedicated to helping others determine which charities they should invest in. It needed a major overhaul.

The site does not take money or make a profit from its informational service.

SMALL FOOTPRINT

The computer needed to be small, and practically hidden. The screen it is driving is the focus. We chose a Raspberry Pi for this, they are perfect for the job.

STRATEGY

INFORM FIRST

This website was built to provide simple and clear communication of a very small, highly personalized set of curated data.

We chose Divi for this due to the amount of content is rather limited now, with potential growth.

The design of the site was to reflect the gentle nature of mankind's love for each other and animals. Kindness and compassion are characteristics we kept in mind while building the site.

We created checklists and other tools to help educate people on the process of selecting and investing in charities.

Our Founder

Givinghand.org was founded by Michael Mortorano, whose mission is to help you help others. Mr. Mortorano's production of this site and his resources so that these tools are available to those seeking information.

CONCEPT DESIGN AND IMPLEMENTATION

DEVICE INDEPENDENT DESIGN

Aeon used a child theme we wrote to work in unison with DIVI for WordPress that allows us to rapidly adjust details without editing the WordPress install. For clean, reliable web developing and design process.

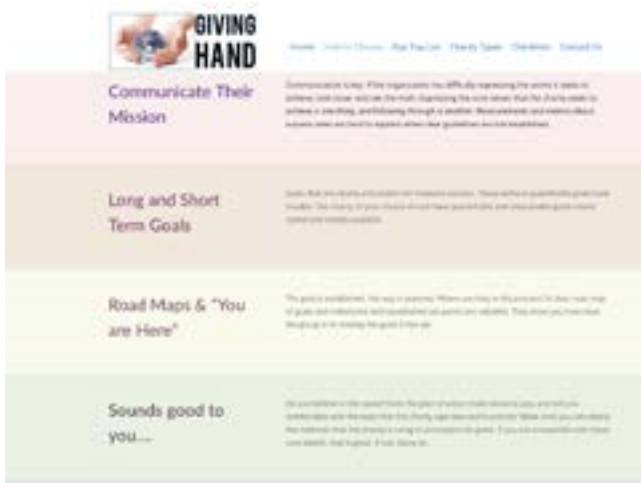

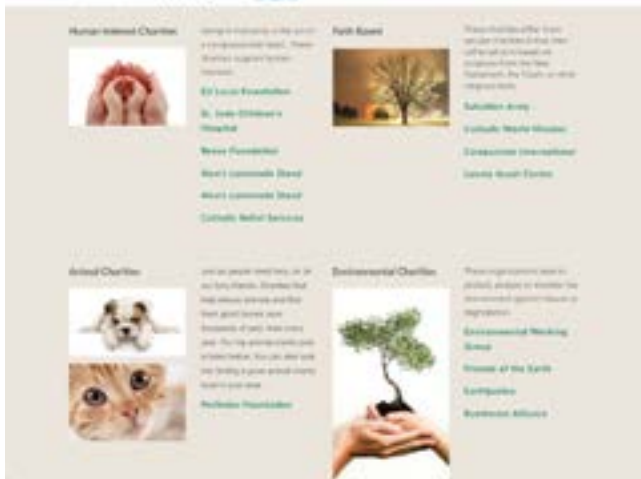

TOOL AND CHECKLISTS

We created downloadable, brandable tools to help people and created lists and checklists as an educational guide to the process of a charity selection.
